

LANDMARKS OF CIVIL RIGHTS

Above: Jeff Steinberg, founder of Sojourn to the Past, receiving nation's highest honor for after school programs in the arts and humanities from First Lady Michelle Obama at the White House.

Right (Top): Minnijean Brown-Trickey in 1957, one of the Little Rock Nine who, through bravery and courage, contributed to the end of public school segregation.

Bottom Right: Minnijean Brown-Trickey today.

The U.S. Civil Rights Movement – Lessons in courage about ordinary people doing extraordinary things to change the course of American History.

Offered in cooperation with the nationally recognized Sojourn to the Past, this course is being taught for the first time on a college campus by Minnijean Brown-Trickey and Jeff Steinberg (www.sojournproject.com).

Visit the following link for instructions on how to enroll now at the college of your choice:
www.sojournproject.com/collegecourse

Skyline College

(Social Science (SOSC) 680SA:
CRN 43477) (3 units)

Monday Evenings 6:30PM –
9:45PM Room 4-170

January 23, 2012 – May 21, 2012

College of San Mateo

(Social Science (SOSC)
680MB: CRN 43496) (3 units)

Tuesday Evenings 6:30PM –
9:30PM Room 10-195

January 17, 2012 – May 22, 2012

Cañada College

(Social Science (SOSC) 680CA:
CRN 43497) (3 units)

Thursday Evenings 6:30PM-
9:30PM Room 3-142

January 19, 2012 – May 24, 2012